

Dear Intermediate Explorer

After making your way through the vast Amazon Jungle you gaze with wonder at the incredible Andes Mountains, the world's longest continental mountain range. You are ready to undertake your third quest, 'Climb Every Mountain.'

Climb Every Mountain

Compulsory Tasks:

Passport Stamp

Design a stamp for one of the South American countries which the Andes Mountains stands over, to go in the top left corner of your passport.

Climb Every Mountain

As an intermediate explorer, you are continuing to write your own account of your adventure journey, this time while climbing every mountain.' Include illustrations or pictures as your quest continues. Try to make your exploration as detailed and exciting as possible.

Choice Inquiries:

Choose two of the following 'inquiries' to complete. Your teacher will discuss the choices of presentation available to you.

The Andes Mountains

What are the Andes Mountains?

On a map of South America, carefully draw in the Andes Mountain range.

List some of the more impressive statistics concerning the Andes. For example, how big is it, where does it begin and end?

Include an illustration or photograph of the Andes Mountains.

Himalayas

The Himalayan Mountain Range is the most famous in the world.

On a map of Asia, carefully draw in the Himalayan Mountain range.

List some of the more impressive statistics concerning the Himalayas. For example, how big is it, what are the famous mountains associated with it and how high they stand.

Include an illustration or photograph of the Himalayan Mountain Range.

Famous Mountain Explorers

There have been many famous mountaineers, with the most famous being our own Sir Edmund Hillary.

Choose one famous mountaineer to write about, making sure to include relevant facts and figures, and also your own opinions about their exploits.

Mountains of the World

Make a chart of the highest mountains in the world (top 10), recording several important facts for each. This can be done on an A3 chart, with pictures or photographs of each

Mountain Story

Research a famous story involving a particular mountain. Outline the plot of the story and explain why this story gained your particular interest. An Illustration may also help.

